Privacy and Disclosure Statements

The Thom-Boy Project is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization providing representative payee services for both individuals and families. Our website is directed toward providing accurate information.

The Thom-Boy Project understands the importance of your privacy on the Internet. That is why we believe it is important to let you know how we use the information collected through The Thom-Boy Project website. The following is our policy regarding Internet privacy and usage.

The Thom-Boy Project goal is to ensure the best reasonable security options available for protecting our data internally and over the Internet. In accordance with our standard security policy, information is not transferred to any third parties. Therefore, the security of your personal information is solely protected by The Thom-Boy Project. Further, only authorized personnel has access to specific areas of client information. All contract representative payees and The Thom-Boy Project staff receive annual Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA) training and certification.

Collection and Use of Personal Information

You can visit our website without revealing any personal information about yourself or telling us who you are. We do not collect personal information, such as your name, address, phone number, or email address, while you browse. We do, however, gather information in aggregate on how this site is used, such as the number of visitors to the site, length of each visit, and which pages are most commonly used to enter and exit the site. Some areas of The Thom-Boy Project website utilize browser cookies. These cookies are used for enhancing the usability of the website. You have the option of disabling cookies in your browser's preferences/options area (refer to your browser's help system for further explanation).

There are now, and will be, sections on The Thom-Boy Project website that are provided for the benefit of the consuming public. You may request consumer educational information or other services in these sections. For The Thom-Boy Project to fulfill your request, you may need to provide us with your email address, regular mail address, or telephone number. Our use of that information will be to help you.

As part of an effort to improve advertising quality, this site may allow Google to detect a short segment of text (known as a cookie) that Google previously placed on your computer. No personal information (e.g., your name or contact information) is included in the cookie that Google detects. For more information about Google and privacy, please read Google's Privacy Policy.
